Hi Paul, Not much came up yesterday. Vince touched on the idea that the DSF was presented as a generic value that the exposure situations had to adjust to because they differ so much from the bioassay situation.

Magee had a new scenario of people touching barbequed meat 20 times/yr (with up-to-date BaP and BaP-TE analyses) and concluded that the DSF made no sense even with such a commonplace exposure. Kissel asked him if he knew what compounding conservatism is.

The agenda was about a half hour behind when I left yesterday @4. Somehow I expect they would catch up before they get to the DSF, scheduled for 3:15 today.

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

According to the agenda, there will be an opportunity for clarifications from EPA (and other speakers who register) tomorrow morning.

Thanks,
Karen
